I spoke to John Price the liquidator, he denied knowing anything about the IRD investigation. He asked what the call was in relation to, and then said something like "Have you been talking to Matt Blomfield." I of course denied. I didn't mention any figures.

Callum did confirm that there was an IRD investigation... but was very sketchy on details... I'm putting some written questions to him now. I think that gets us over the line. He brought up your name... but no drama.

Mentioned that you had been threatening to go to the media and Warren thought you were behind the Khandallah kerfuffle. I threw him off. At first Callum acknowledged the IRD investigation, then he backed away and said that it happened before they sold the business to TPF. This current investigation was much more recent than that right?

What else can you say about the investigation?

Well then the story does appear to be growing. They do say if smoke fire. What did he say about me?
